

AN INVITATION

This is an open invitation to past and present students who have studied at either Shobo-ji or Dai Bosatsu with Eido Roshi.

Please join us on March 20 for a meeting of the Sangha.

The purpose of this meeting is to come together as a Sangha in a safe environment to understand what we've all been going through: to define it, to acknowledge our suffering and to find ways of healing.

The meeting will be co-facilitated by Barry Magid and Grace Schireson.

Barry is a psychiatrist and psychoanalyst in New York City and is the Zen teacher of The Ordinary Mind Zendo.

Grace Schireson is the founder and head teacher of the Empty Nest Zen Group. She is author of the book Zen Women: Beyond Tea Ladies, Iron Maidens and Macho Masters.

WHAT, WHEN AND WHERE?

The Committee for Sangha Stepping Forth (CSSF) organizers are: Chika Bettina Mueller, Jimin Anna Klegon, Renji Ellen Darby, Seigan Ed Glassing.

Please feel free to email us with any questions:

We are no longer affiliated with the Zen Studies Society and this meeting is not organized by the ZSS Board of Directors, nor will they be in attendance.

After waiting for months to hear from the ZSS Board, we have decided to step forth and organize at a grassroots level a way to address some of the hurt and suffering that many of us have been experiencing over the last six months caused by the actions of Eido Roshi, the Board and our own denial over the years.

If you are thinking about attending

We expect that you have some feelings about what has happened at ZSS and we expect that coming together in this way provides some sense of empowerment and the positive connections of Sangha. This is the essential purpose of this meeting-coming together to help each other.

In that vein, we hope that you will be sensitive to listening to others, whose views may differ, and to sharing in a way that will help others to feel heard and understood. If you feel that your personal feelings are far too painful to share at this point, your (unspoken) feelings will be respected. No one will be pressured to disclose. If you feel like you need to speak personally, before or after the meeting, you may do so by contacting one of the committee members.

Our strongest intention is to be there for each other, to not cause any further harm-either through withholding information or through pressure to share--and to find a way forward through the healing power of sangha.

The meeting space: University Settlement
Houston Street Center
273 Bowery, NYC

Date: Sunday, March 20 9AM - 5PM

Registration: There is no charge for the meeting and if you plan to
